

Prof.ssa ELENA VALLINO

 elena.vallino@unito.it

Elena Vallino is a senior Assistant Professor at the Department of Cultures, Politics and Society, University of Torino.

She holds a degree in Political Sciences at the University of Torino and a Master in International and Development Economics at the University of Applied Study in Berlin, Germany.

She worked for Italian NGOs in Africa and for the German Technical Cooperation Agency in Indonesia.

She completed a PhD in Economics of Complex Systems at the University of Torino, spending periods as Visiting Scholar at the Center for Research in Economic Development (CRED), University of Namur, Belgium, at the Arizona State University, USA, and at the Corvinus University of Budapest, Hungary.

She conducts research and teaches in the fields of development and environmental studies. Currently she works mainly on water scarcity, virtual water associated to food, and food security.